Making things better in the Village, please consider the following:

The requirement to have house address numbers is almost universally required by municipal ordinances. Each city or county has a slightly different standard, but their intentions are the same: that your house numbers be clearly visible from the street so that the police, paramedics or a fire engine responding to your 911 emergency call can locate the right house.

The numbers do not have to be on the house itself. They can be on a mailbox, fence, or post in front of the home. The maximum height of the numbers in the Village of Farwell for residential is 6 inches, and 18 inches for businesses

All of this may seem like another example of government’s intrusion on the right of a private citizen to use their own property without interference...until your spouse has a heart attack in the middle of the night and an emergency paramedic van goes screaming by the house, then has to turn around and double back, using a searchlight to try to find your house number.

Also, a common problem that emergency responders have in locating a house is that the numbers are there but have been obscured by foliage growth over time.
